Safer speeds for more local roads

20 mph zones extended

by Dan Stephens

THREE more new 20mph zones are being introduced in the royal borough this month as part of a council scheme to make local roads even safer for residents.

The council is introducing 20mph speed limits in residential streets across the borough to further improve what is already one of the best road safety records in London.

The most recent figures show the borough has seen the biggest reduction in serious road casualties of all London boroughs. The borough is bringing in lower speed limits, raising awareness and backing education programmes about road safety in order to build on that record even further.

The three new 20mph zones being introduced this month in the Broadwater Road area in Thamesmead, the Calderwood Street area in Woolwich and the Begbie Road area in Kidbrooke. The physical works needed to bring in the speed limits - such as introducing new signs, traffic calming measures, raised tables and road humps - began last week.

Further new 20mph zones will be introduced later this year in areas around William Barefoot Drive in Eltham, Weigall Road in Kidbrooke and Kingsman Street in Woolwich. When all these works are finished it will mean 65 per cent of the borough's residential roads will have a maximum speed limit of 20mph.

The council will then assess which of the remaining zones to do next, drawing up a priority list for 2016/17 based on the number and severity of any collisions on the borough's roads - prioritising certain locations such as those close to schools or where incidents have occurred on journeys to and from school.

Councillor Danny Thorpe, the royal borough's cabinet member for regeneration and transport said: "Keeping

Amazed by facilities at Greenwich Carers Centre

I recently had the pleasure of attending a meeting at the new Greenwich Carers' Centre located in the Charlton House 'Stables'. I was amazed at the service they have available to residents who look after someone dear to them. You do not have to be an official carer and you do not have to be looking after them 24/7 - just a few hours a week is sufficient for you to be accepted as a carer and to receive the free treatments, advice and support that the Centre offers you. The person you are looking after can also go or an official sitter can be arranged. Pampering treatments can be arranged for the carers and the cared for. You can go for a coffee and something to eat and meet other caring people or you can also go and get pampered. It is a place to go where stress can be relieved either by talking to someone or having your nails done. It's great that this is funded by the Council and I would recommend anyone to go and have a look at what they offer. It is like walking into a five star hotel or being on the best cruise ship possible and it's right next door to Charlton House. I think you will, as I was, be 'AMAZED' at the facilities.

Cyclists spoil my visits to Cutty Sark Gardens

WHY has it become almost impossible to enjoy or even walk through Cutty Sark Gardens without having to constantly avoid cyclists. I understand it is meant to be a 'NO CYCLING' area, yet there is little to no signage, and even less enforcement. I have two young sons who enjoy running around playing pirates in front of the Cutty Sark, but after several near misses (followed by abuse from the offending cyclist), I refuse to take them there now! I have spoken to several 'Greenwich Wardens' who all tell me they are unable to take any action, yet the Police tell me that it IS their responsibility to enforce? I understand cycling is actively encouraged in the borough, however should this be at the expense and the safety of local families and visitors alike?

Matthew Brunt

● A council spokesperson said: "We are sorry to read that Mr Brunt feels unable to enjoy Cutty Sark Gardens because of the thoughtless behaviour of certain cyclists. Cutty Sark Gardens is one of many brilliant open spaces in the royal borough that residents and visitors should be able to enjoy. We realise that many cyclists wish to use the Greenwich Foot Tunnel to cross the river and the Riverside Path to avoid main roads and so need to cross Cutty Sark Gardens. Although we are keen to encourage cycling we do not condone thoughtless behaviour. We are working to identify, and then mark out, cycling routes across the Gardens that will ensure that everyone can share and properly enjoy such a fantastic space."

Countess of Wessex visits charity shop

A CHARITY volunteer got an extra special thank you after 30 years helping to raise funds for the blind.

Her Royal Highness Sophie Rhys-Jones, The Countess of Wessex presented a plaque and flowers to Christine Symes when she called into the Geranium Shop For The Blind in Eltham.

The countess took over as patron of the charity in 2003 following The Queen Mother who was the patron from 1931 until her death.

Geranium Shop For The Blind is a chain of charity shops started in 1921 that sell a selection of second hand clothing, footwear and bric-a-brac items, with the shop in Eltham having been run for 94 years.

The Countess had a look around the shop and greeted staff before the presentation to Christine who has been working as a volunteer at the Eltham store for more than 30 years.

Store manager Lorraine Foot said: "It was so nice for the countess to attend our shop and show Christine how much we appreciate her. We all love working for the charity and we have some great volunteers – just like Christine. I would also like to thank all our supporters, without them we would not have the shops we have."

Geranium shops provide a vital source of income for the charity which supports the blind and partially blind and is distributed to other blind charities such as Action for the Blind, Association of Blind Asians, Action Trust for the Blind, Extant, National Talking Newspaper, Royal London Society for the Blind and the Royal National Institute for the Blind.

IN MEMORY: The Mayor of the royal borough, Cllr Adams, Cllr Hyland and Borough Dean David Chick at the Town Hall

Silence marks Tunisia loss

A MINUTE'S silence was held at Woolwich Town Hall last Friday (July 3) in memory of the victims of the recent terrorist attack in Tunisia.

The mayor of the royal borough, Cllr Norman Adams, opened the event and joined the leader of the council Cllr Denise Hyland and faith leaders including David Chick, borough dean of New Wine Church, Dolly Baldeo of the Greenwich Hindu Temple, Dr Tariq Abassi, MBE secretary general of the World Muslim Congress, Gurdwara Sahib and Saeed Ahmad of the Greenwich Peninsula Chaplaincy Steering Group, and Jagir Sekhon, OBE, who represented Woolwich Sikh Temple.

Eltham cinema plan exhibition

THE Royal Borough of Greenwich is due to submit a planning application in regard to a new cinema complex development at the heart of Eltham.

The royal borough has selected an operator for the cinema and is submitting a detailed planning application later this month. The proposals include a six cinema auditoria and two restaurants on the ground floor.

Details of the proposals can be viewed a public exhibition at the Eltham Centre in Archery Road which will be displayed from Thursday 9 July till the end of the month. Statutory consultation will be carried out as part of the planning process and full details of the proposals, along with supporting plans and reports, will be posted on the council's planning portal, subject to the application being validated.

Council challenges government directive

THE Royal Borough of Greenwich has begun legal action against a government decision to direct the borough to stop publishing Greenwich Time weekly.

The Council has decided to take this action as it does not believe that the Government has a good enough reason to direct the Council to stop producing Greenwich Time each week.

The Government says it is directing the Council to stop publishing Greenwich Time more than four times a year in order to protect the independent press from unfair competition. Yet MPs on the communities and local government select committee found little evidence to support the view that council publications are competing unfairly with independent newspapers.

Unlike other local newspapers, Greenwich Time is delivered to every household in the borough allowing the Council to give every household in the borough equal access to important council information, like council services and available council housing. The Council also uses it to place advertising that it is legally bound to publish each week – including planning applications and traffic notices. The Council uses Greenwich Time to do this as it would cost the taxpayer nearly a quarter of a million pounds more to put those adverts in another local paper and to produce the extra publicity we would need to tell people about council services. Opposition councillors in the Royal Borough have raised concerns about the council's decision to spend money on the legal challenge but the Council says it is about saving taxpayers money overall. Councillor Denise Hyland,

Leader of the Royal Borough of Greenwich said:

"The fact that producing Greenwich Time weekly saves taxpayers money – at a time when budgets are being squeezed tighter than ever before – gives us every reason to fight this decision on behalf of our residents.

"The cost of the legal action is a great deal less than the cost to the taxpayer were we to place our advertising in another local paper.

"We either take the case to review or we start spending an extra £21,000 a month of taxpayers' money to comply with the Secretary of State's direction by placing our adverts into local newspapers, producing leaflets and a quarterly Greenwich Time instead of our weekly edition. We are advised we have a strong case and would seek to recoup legal costs if successful."

More capital in the capital

COUNCILLOR Denise Hyland, leader of the royal borough offered her congratulations to the latest company pledging to pay the London Living wage.

She joined guests last Friday (July 3) to celebrate the accreditation of chartered surveyors and construction consultants Martin Arnold as a local employer paying the London Living Wage.

The event saw a plaque presented to Martin Arnold by local MP Matthew Pennycook. It marked their status as one of a growing number of local businesses committed to paying their employees the Living Wage. The council-led campaign has so far seen 102 businesses commit to the Living Wage with 17 businesses completing the accreditation process.

Among the guests were representatives from the Greenwich branch of Citizens UK, and Ravensbourne, who were there to promote the benefits of the Living Wage.

The council is itself an accredited London Living Wage employer, paying all staff a minimum of £9.15 per. Employers that pay the Living Wage have made valuable savings by improving staff recruitment, retaining more staff, cutting absenteeism, and raising their profile as a responsible employer.

Cllr Hyland told GT: "Congratulations to Martin Arnold for receiving this accreditation. As a business they have been one of the first in the royal borough to commit to the Living Wage and continue to work hard to promote its values."

"The London Living Wage better reflects the current high costs of living in the capital."

The council already pays all of its own staff the Living Wage and we encourage all local businesses to do the same."

Director of the Living Wage Foundation, Rhys Moore told GT: "We are delighted to award the Living Wage Mark to Martin Arnold. It is great to see responsible employers leading the way by acting now to challenge low pay. We are very grateful to Matthew Pennycook MP and to Cllr Denise Hyland and the royal borough for their particularly strong leadership on this issue."

Remembering a much-loved pet

PEOPLE who have lost a much-loved pet can now buy a permanent memorial to remember its life.

The scheme has been launched by the Friends of the old Pet Cemetery on Shooters Hill, who have created a memorial wall for people to post their plaques. These give details of the animal and its name, its age and lifespan dates, and a dedication. The plaques are white lettering on blue panels. Prices start from £15, according to size.

● For more information, contact Friends chair Liz Mcdermott on 020 8854 5172 or by email to mcdermott\_liz@hotmail.com or secretary Jean Patrick on 079 7720 8362 or email jmp179@sky.com

The Friends was started in 2012 by a group of dog walkers who wanted to restore the neglected historic pet cemetery next to Hornfair Park. It is all that remains of the Blue Cross Kennels, which began life in 1899 as a kennels for the pets of army officers. The Blue Cross acquired them at the end of World War 1 to house dogs being brought back by families returning from abroad and providing a final resting place should it be needed. The kennels finally closed in 1958.

Plans for Plumstead library a step closer

PLANS to upgrade library and leisure services in Plumstead have moved a step closer after a successful consultation with residents.

The council is now ready to commission a feasibility study on the existing library building, with the aim of creating a new library and leisure service for Plumstead under one roof.

It follows online consultation and conversations with Plumstead residents on how best to improve library and leisure services. Residents said their priorities were to have access to good quality books and materials, as well as more computers and Wi-Fi that is available for longer hours.

Residents also called for more multi-function spaces where people can take part in sports and activities including cultural events and exhibitions.

There will be ongoing consultation as part of developing the final plans for the centre.

The plan for Plumstead follows successful library/leisure schemes at the Eltham Centre, Woolwich Centre and the recently opened Greenwich Centre which all offer a range of services under one roof.

Cllr Miranda Williams, the cabinet member for culture and creative services said: "Whilst other councils are closing libraries due to cuts to their funding, our sound financial management has meant we are opening and refurbishing new larger facilities."

"This also fits into our plans to continue to make our service centres community hubs where people can loan books and DVDs, keep fit, study and learn new skills, access health services and interact with the council. It is all part of our commitment to provide services fit for the 21st Century."

FAMILIES across the royal borough can have fun eating well and getting active this summer with help from the council's Change4Life healthy living roadshow.

Part of a national campaign, the roadshow gets underway today (July 7) and will be touring the borough until September 5.

The roadshow helps parents and children to find out the best ways to get fit, eat well and live healthier lives. Friendly, trained advisers from the Charlton Athletic Community Trust (CACT) will be on hand to highlight the range of free and low-cost activities open to residents - from walking, swimming and team sports, to dance, martial arts and racquet sports.

Residents can join in with fun activities such as cycling and dancing, and there will also be free giveaways available to those signing-up. Some roadshow stops will even feature a community chef demonstrating healthy Change4Life recipes that can be tried at home.

Run by Disney, the '10 Minute Shake-Up' is also returning to the roadshow this summer. It is aimed at encouraging children to be more active by breaking the recommended 60 minutes of activity a day into bite-size chunks. Visitors can also find out how Change4Life's 'Smart Swaps' campaign can help

Stall orders for new farmers' market

THE Royal Arsenal development will see the launch of a monthly farmers' market, focusing on quality, artisan food produced in the royal borough.

People will be able to visit a variety of stalls, selling quality local produce including meat, cheese, fresh fruit and vegetables, as well as homemade bread and preserves.

Stalls have been handpicked by market organisers James Yeomans and Emma Wheatley, owners of Hop Stuff, an independent local brewery.

Emma said: "This is a great opportunity to showcase the best produce from right across the Royal Borough of Greenwich. As microbrewers, we have been to a lot of markets but none of them put as much emphasis on supporting independent, local retailers as the new market at Royal Arsenal Riverside will."

The Royal Arsenal farmers' market will then be held on the second Saturday of each month, 10am - 3pm along No. 1 Street in Berkeley's Royal Arsenal development in Woolwich, SE18.

Summer feast to showcase the best of local food

RESIDENTS, shoppers and visitors can get a taste of good food with a local flavour at a special summer feast day this weekend.

The Royal Greenwich Summer Feast celebrates some of the borough's food businesses and projects while offering a chance to enjoy a variety of global music performers.

People can find out about some of the projects taking part in the Good Food in Greenwich initiative – a partnership of food producers and sellers who share a commitment to building a fairer, healthier and more sustainable Greenwich.

Community growing schemes will be offering some of their produce, while local cookery clubs will be sharing tips and recipes. Local traders due to take part include Greenwich Pantry, Made in Greenwich, Organic Greenwich, Casa Grande, Carib-Gourmet, The Honest Loaf and Viet Baguette.

The event also features the Greenwich Change 4 Life Summer Roadshow which will be touring the borough offering support and advice to local families on how to make healthy changes to their lifestyle.

Local residents and businesses will have a chance sign up to the Good Food in Greenwich initiative, with a pledge to change or improve their approach to food in the coming year. This could include deciding to get involved in a growing project, or pledging to shop from local farmer's market.

The Royal Greenwich Summer Feast is on Saturday July 11, and runs from 11am – 5pm in General Gordon Square, Woolwich.

Cllr Denise Scott-McDonald, the royal borough's cabinet member for community wellbeing and public health, said: "There are some very exciting projects across the borough that are promoting good food. In particular we want to promote the idea that the food we buy and eat can make a positive contribution to our own health, and to the wellbeing of the local community and of the planet. The Summer Feast is a great chance to find out what's going on and we hope to offer even more inspiration to local people on how to get involved in creating Good Food in Greenwich."

Roar of the lion dance

600 step out for Chinese school celebrations

by Beverly Assah

SIX hundred people joined a celebration to mark the 34th anniversary of the Greenwich Chinese Community School.

The school runs supplementary classes in languages and cultural activities for children aged four to 18 at Meridian primary school, Old Woolwich Road.

Pupils, parents and teachers attended the celebration along with local representatives and guests from the Chinese Embassy in London.

The event was opened by Greenwich Mayor Cllr Norman Adams who was joined by Greenwich and Woolwich MP Matthew Pennycook and Mr Fei Ming

Xing and Mr Li Hui from the Chinese embassy.

Guests were welcomed with a traditional lion dance which is thought to bring good luck. The celebration also included performances by the school's pupils with dancers from four years old. The GCCS youth team, which includes children aged 14 to 17, sang in Mandarin and Cantonese and there was singing, dancing and poetry recitals by the nursery class children followed by a ribbon dance.

Stay safe in the heat

AS TEMPERATURES soar, the royal borough is joining GPs in encouraging people to make sure they protect themselves and their families in the heat.

Local people are also urged to keep an eye out for vulnerable neighbours and others who are at risk when it's too hot for too long.

Dr Ellen Wright, a local GP and Chair of NHS Greenwich Clinical Commissioning Group, said the health of the elderly, young children and babies and those with serious illnesses can be seriously affected by dehydration, heat exhaustion and heatstroke, and sunburn.

"Most people enjoy getting out in the sunshine but it's important to remember that the change in temperature can cause health risks.

"However, there are general steps that people and families can follow to make sure they stay safe while making the most of the warmer weather," she said.

Cllr Denise Scott-McDonald, the royal borough's cabinet member for community wellbeing and public health, added: "If the weather gets very hot, please keep an eye out for any neighbours who are elderly or who might be vulnerable to the heat – especially if they live alone."

General tips for everyone to be sun safe are:

- limit your exposure to the sun to short periods between the hours of 11am to 3pm
- if you have to be out in the sun for longer periods, wear a high factor sunscreen and reapply regularly, especially to babies and children

- wear loose cotton clothing to cover as much of the body as possible and keep you cool

- drink lots of cool drinks to stay hydrated

- seek shade
- wear sunglasses and a hat

- never leave anyone in a closed, parked vehicle, especially infants, young children or animals.

- keep babies out of the sun as much as possible, especially when the sun is at its strongest, attach a parasol or sunshade to the pushchair. You and your baby should both drink plenty of fluids so you don't get dehydrated

- Muslims who may be fasting during Ramadan are advised to balance food and fluid intake between fasts and especially to drink enough water

- if you have any health concerns for yourself or for someone you know, please contact your GP or pharmacist. You can get more information on staying safe this summer on the NHS Choices website www.nhs.uk

● If you are concerned about the safety of a vulnerable neighbour contact the Council's Contact Assessment Team on 020 8921 2304 or 020 8854 8888. In an emergency, always call 999.

Drugs cash goes to kids hospice

THE Demelza hospice for children is one of two charities to benefit after Greenwich Police donated £13,380 cash seized from a drug dealer.

The money was forfeited after a court case and donated to the Eltham-based charity and the Battersea Cats and Dogs Home.

A drug dealer from Abbey Wood has been jailed for five years and three months.

Harry Simpson, 24, from Commonwealth Way was sentenced at Woolwich Crown Court after pleading guilty to possessing cocaine and cannabis with intent to supply. He also admitted driving while disqualified, and possession of criminal property and cannabis.

He was arrested on February 12, after driving a hired BMW erratically in Commonwealth Way. Police found he was driving while disqualified and without a licence or insurance.

Detectives searched his home address and seized cocaine with 89 per cent purity as well as one kilo of cannabis with a total street value of £40,000.

He was also sentenced to two years and six months for possession of cannabis, two months jail and three years disqualification for driving while disqualified, and a total of 21 months for two offences of possessing criminal property, which was the cash seized at his home. All sentences will be served concurrently.

The appliance of school science

by Dick Townsend-Smith

CHILDREN at Invicta Primary School in Blackheath were set a challenge this term – how to teach the other pupils about their summer term science topics.

The children chose to do it by taking part in a science week, with different years taking on different projects. They created their own inventions and put them on show in the school hall. They created exciting technology designs for the future, including robots to do the shopping and make dinner.

The week ended with an 'Inventors and Innovators Fayre', where the children could check out and learn from each other's work. Marie Corbett, executive headteacher, said: "I was really impressed by the quality of the children's imagination and ability to articulate the science behind their inventions. I never underestimate the thinking skills of my wonderful school."

All good sports

AND THEY'RE OFF: Pupils perform on track and field, this year's winner was Kidbrooke Park Primary School, which received the prestigious Sportathon shield from the Mayor Cllr Norman Adams

SPORTATHON is a key part of the council's wider strategy to inspire young people to take part and enjoy sport and to make physical activity a central part of their lives.

Sixty-six schools and around 2,400 children from years 3 and 4 competed in athletics, big dance, sports wheelchair relay and target skills to try and win the top prize of the Sportathon Shield.

From Monday to Thursday schools competed against each other in a number of events and rounds, scoring points to determine who returned for the Sportathon final on the Friday - with the top three schools from each day qualifying. After a well contested final Kidbrooke Park won the day, with Horn Park and De Lucy Primary Schools coming second and third respectively.

All participants received a certificate of attendance and a voucher for £10 off Better Sports Courses.

The Mayor Cllr Norman Adams, Cllr Miranda Williams, cabinet member for cultural and creative industries and Cllr John Fahy, deputy leader and cabinet member for children's services all attended the final to show their support. Tosin Oke, Greenwich Starting Blocks Ambassador, was also a guest.

Sportathon was created as an Olympic legacy event in 2006 to celebrate the award of the 2012 Olympic Games to London. So far over 16,500 children have taken part and the event has been awarded the prestigious London 2012 Inspire Mark as an outstanding event which contributes to the Games' lasting legacy.

Cllr Miranda Williams, the cabinet member for culture and creative industries said:

"Sportathon is now a well-established and much loved annual event for young children from across the whole of the Royal Borough to come together and take part in positive sporting activities. It's a fantastic legacy from the London 2012 Games and we are determined to give children and young people every opportunity to take part in sports and physical activities including access to top quality facilities.

"The home of Sportathon is Sutcliffe Park, which is a 2012 legacy project, we have already submitted a planning application for a £7m investment in a new multi sports centre next to the track that will further develop the excellent sports facilities at Sutcliffe."

Cllr John Fahy Royal Greenwich Cabinet Member for Children's Services added: "Every year Sportathon seems to go from strength to strength, and I'm delighted to see that every primary school across Royal Borough is proudly represented with children having fun, making friends and taking part in sporting competition."

THE royal borough's annual Sportathon took place last week with schoolchildren across the local area competing for prestigious prizes and achieving great sporting moments. The week-long celebration of sport ran from June 22 to 26 at Sutcliffe Park, Kidbrooke and involved every primary school in the royal borough. DAN STEPHENS finds out how it went...

Facilities for the future

THE COUNCIL is investing in sports facilities across the royal borough as part of its commitment to delivering an Olympic Legacy for the local area.

- The brand-new Greenwich Centre which recently opened offers first-class community facilities for residents. These include a new leisure centre with a six-lane main pool and shallower learner pool, both with double shallow ends to increase the pool space for people who are learning to swim. The centre also has two studios and a state-of-the-art gym with more than 100 pieces of equipment and a free-weights area.

- Exciting plans for a new leisure centre in Woolwich are well underway. The planned facilities will provide an even better and more family friendly leisure centre with pools, a sports hall and squash courts. Delivery of a new leisure centre to replace the current Waterfront Centre is a key element of the council's Woolwich masterplan - an overall vision for the town centre aimed at promoting economic growth and regeneration.

- The council has invested significantly in school sports facilities and playgrounds as part of the royal borough's Olympic Legacy. This investment has included £6.5m worth of funding to enhance community sports facilities based at Thomas Tallis and Crown Woods, the £4.8m Playground to Podium programme, which provides new sports facilities in parks and open spaces, and a £3m investment in a sports hub in Hornfair Park.

Cllr Miranda Williams, cabinet member for culture and creative industries said: "The opening of the new Greenwich Centre and our ambitious plans for a brand new leisure centre in the heart of Woolwich demonstrates the council's commitment to delivering sports and leisure facilities for the royal borough. It also shows our strong partnership with Greenwich Leisure Limited and has allowed us to extend services with more sports and library facilities for our residents."

Eltham's got talent

THREE Saturdays of free music, dance and crafts kick off this weekend (July 11) with local musicians playing alongside emerging talent.

The Eltham Summer Music Festival is jointly hosted by the royal borough and local arts group Eltham Arts. The musical days are part of the Royal Greenwich Music Festivals, and features a great mix of established musicians and a range of new talent.

Everyone is invited to come along and listen to a range of music from a variety of genres including world, acoustic and folk as well as performances of drama and dance. Performances take place in Passey Place between the 10am - 5pm on Saturdays from July 11 to 25.

July 11 sees a song and dance theme, with performances from singing duo Brothers in Swing, Eltham Hill School and a Rock Choir among others.

July 18 features guitars, vocals and crafts with performers including instrumental electric guitarist John Edwards and musician Santino Fabbicatore. There will also be crafts for children courtesy of Pragya Kumar.

The last leg of the festival on July 25 has a folk and acoustic feel, courtesy of a range of performances including acoustic band Pythwood and the vocal harmonies of Gordon Mark Webber & Steve Mac.

Councillor Miranda Williams, the royal borough's cabinet member for culture and creative industries said: "The Eltham Summer Music Festival will be bringing a vibrant and eclectic range of artists to the borough and there will be something for everyone to enjoy over the next four Saturdays. "I'd encourage everyone to have a look at the exciting programme of events for the Greenwich Music Festivals, which takes place over the coming weeks. From established acts to brand new artists, music lovers from the borough and beyond are in for a real treat. It is a great opportunity for visitors to come to Eltham and make a day of it by shopping, eating out at a local restaurant or visiting the Eltham Centre."

Gaynor Wingham, chair of Eltham Arts said: "Eltham Arts is delighted to be involved again this year in organising the programme of events in Passey Place for the Eltham Summer Music Festival with the council. Our aim is to bring the community together through the arts and the three Saturdays of free music, dance and crafts in the high street does just that, as well as promoting business in our town centre. We have some fantastic performers, demonstrating the wealth of local talent".

JOHN Piper's original set design for the 1961 Covent Garden production of Britten's A Midsummer Night's Dream is now on public display at Blackheath Halls. It comes after the Trinity Laban Opera's production of the opera which ran for five performances last week. John Piper's set design accompanied the Covent Garden production of the opera and he worked on many designs for the stage throughout his life including many of Benjamin Britten's operas. Dr Claire Mera-Nelson, director of Music, Trinity Laban Conservatoire of Music and Dance said: "Staff and students at Trinity Laban Conservatoire of Music and Dance are delighted that this work will be displayed at Blackheath Halls. It's a rare opportunity for all to see this special and significant item that is part of the opera's early history."

The set design will remain on display throughout July to be enjoyed by audiences attending performances by Blackheath Halls Opera whose production of Mozart's Idomeneo opens on Tuesday July 14.

Royal Borough of Greenwich's Choice Based Lettings Scheme

IMPORTANT NOTICE

CHANGES TO THE ALLOCATION POLICY

The Royal Borough of Greenwich agreed a number of changes to the Allocations Policy on 18 March 2015, in order to manage the growing pressures on the limited housing stock and to reflect legal changes that have occurred over the last few years.

These include:

- The creation of a fourth housing band so that the Royal Borough can better manage the demands for housing across the priority groups
- Revisions to the priority groups within the Allocations Scheme
- Changes to the groups that can be excluded or suspended from the Housing Register

Full details of the Allocations Policy can be found on the Royal Borough's website at:

SUSPENSION OF GREENWICH HOMES FOR ONE WEEK ON 15 JULY 2015

In order to make the necessary changes to the IT system, there will not be any properties advertised in Greenwich Homes on 15 July 2015. This will allow the policy changes to be implemented by 20 July 2015 and Greenwich Homes will operate as usual from that week.

This is what happened to the homes advertised in issue 447

Residents take time to get fit

A PROJECT designed to help local people get fitter and more active has spurred more than 1500 Thamesmead residents to take part in more than 8000 hours-worth of fitness activities in its first year.

Now's the Time, which started in June last year offers weekly sport and activity classes for just £1 per session.

Activities range from boxercise and badminton to swimming and tennis and netball tournaments as well as a daily bike hire scheme.

The initiative is the result of a partnership between Trust Thamesmead, Gallions, Peabody, Bexley Council, the Royal Borough of Greenwich and Sport England, supported by Charlton Athletic Community Trust.

The aim is to offer an affordable and accessible activity programme which has developed in accordance with residents' interest.

More than 1300 residents have also taken advantage of a Now's the Time free health kiosk which checks residents' height, weight and BMI at Morrisons in Thamesmead town centre.

Local resident Michelle Payne (pictured left) who signed up last summer, said: "I was a bit worried having not exercised for a while too but it doesn't matter what fitness level you are at, the tutor makes it easy for everyone and encourages people to go at their own pace. I also love the fact that my 12-year-old daughter takes part in Netball – one of the few things that we can take part in together."
